LEWIS FREEMAN HARRISON TO RUN FOR EPPALOCK WARD

Small business owner, Lewis Freeman Harrison, is running for Eppalock Ward for the first time ever.

The 25-year-old Flora Hill resident is campaigning on principles of equality, fairness, support of small business and a voice for young citizens. He believes now is the opportune time for him to take on a greater role in his community.

“I have a passion for community and strongly support the night life, hospitality industry and music industry, which have all been impacted by COVID-19.”

Mr Freeman Harrison, who has previously garnered attention for his religious antics and support of the “Vote No” campaign against Marriage Equality is cognisant of the scepticism of some surrounding his decision to run for Eppalock Ward. He believes that honesty and transparency is essential across all levels of government.

“I want to be open in sharing my story with my community. I was raised in foster care and had a difficult start in life. I know what it’s like to struggle and there are many obstacles I have had to overcome. I am aware there are people out there who may perceive me as foolish due to my past behaviours. I have since educated myself and no longer endorse the views I used to hold.”

Mr Freeman Harrison believes that connecting with people is of the utmost importance. He says he wishes to evoke change in the community in this way.

“I want to help other people. I believe that life is about making mistakes; growing and learning from them. I am now older, wiser and in a more stable position to undertake an endeavour like this. I also have a supportive partner and a thriving business.”

Given the current pandemic, Mr Freeman Harrison is optimistic about bringing a renewed set of ideas to the table.

“The City of Greater Bendigo needs a fresh injection of youth to assist; both in terms of the current economic crisis, in addition to proposing new ideas to council. After all, it is my generation and the next that will have to go through the detrimental effects of this debt and deficit.”
